PRE-CONFERENCE WORKSHOP

Can't intubate, can't oxygenate (CICO)

Zaal 531

The CICO (formerly know as CICV) scenario is a relatively rare event during airway management in Anaesthesia. The CICO scenario may be more frequent in specialties such as Intensive Care or in the Emergency Department owing to the patient population and nature of the underlying emergent medical issues. The Fourth National Audit Project (NAP4) done by the Royal College of Anaesthetists in the UK shows poor management of cases where PEO (Percutaneous Emergency Oxygenation) with either a scalpel or a cannula was performed. This was mainly due to lack of provider skills, materials and preparation. It is a professional responsibility as medical doctor to be prepared for such an eventuality.

In this course you will get hands on manikin practice in CICO management and PEO techniques according to the ANZCA (Australian and New Zealand College of Anaesthetists) Algorithm. A CICO scenario can happen in any type of patient in any type of setting. The ANZCA Algorithm strives to manage CICO scenario's in all patients in all settings. This Algorithm includes cannula and scalpel techniques and assumes to always use a cannula technique as first technique for PEO. During the course there will be ongoing discussion on how these techniques have been established as well as material choice and common mistakes and pitfalls as to have the candidates optimally benefit from the course.

Time 10.00 - 13.00 hour
14.00 - 17.00 hour

Emergency ECG Master Class (English spoken)

Zaal 530

Have you ever been confronted with a sick patient whose ECG just didn't look 'right'? Have you ever had to make a call on a patient and wished you could more confidently interpret their ECG? This 1-day ECG masterclass may take you from 'zero to hero'! It will help you further build on your existing ECG knowledge. Topics included are: the tox ECG, heart blocks, infarct localisation, syncope, (S) VT's and more.

Time 09.00 - 17.15 hour
Faculty Eveline Baerends and Jacques Malan

Costs € 150,-

Enhancing your ultrasound skills

Zaal 558 and 559

The ultrasound section will entertain you with an ultrasound precourse, focused on enhancing your ultrasound skills. We will be practicing on people as seen in your own emergency department. We aim to stimulate your learning curve on core ultrasound for unstable patients. Be prepared for hands-on the probe all the time, with little time for plenary instructions. The targeted audience consists primarily of emergency physicians (or residents) seeking to expand skillset and built confidence for using ultrasound. This course is not intended for absolute newbies. Furthermore performed scans cannot be added to your certification portfolio.

Time 09.00 - 17.00 hour
Faculty Sectie Echografie

Learning to take the heat Training for stress

Zaal 532

The focus of the workshop is to develop an understanding of how stress affects the performance of health professionals when caring for the critically ill, and more importantly, how we can teach others to handle stress.

This workshop explores the techniques we can use to deal with extreme stress, and how we can train to use them effectively to perform under pressure. Techniques include self-talk, visualization, tactical breathing, cognitive unloading, and how to train others. The faculty includes experienced emergency physicians and simulation trainers.

Time 13.00 - 17.00 hour
Faculty Martine Oosterloo, Björn Dijkstra and Jeroen Veldhuis

Comfort Talk (English spoken)

Zaal 535

Discover A Proven Method For Dramatically Reducing a Patient's Stress and Anxiety Without Drugs or Sedation

Most of us experience fear, pain and anxiety when visiting a hospital or doctor's office (and that's just in the waiting room). Comfort Talk ® is an innovative method of non-pharmaceutical patient sedation. Healthcare professionals are trained in "talking style" techniques that are complemented with hypnoidal language allowing them to help reduce the anxiety, pain and distress of their patients.

The Comfort Talk ® techniques tap into the mind's natural ability to block pain and reduce stress. It is a no nonsense, straightforward approach to patient relaxation or sedation without the use of medication.

WORKSHOPS

THURSDAY MAY 31, 2018

Front room cardiac ultrasound,
tips and tricks

Zaal 558 en 559

Cardiac ultrasound is an indispensable tool in the emergency department, especially in the hyper-acute patients. This hands-on workshop is tailored to both inexperienced and advanced ultrasonographers. It covers tips and tricks on how to improve cardiac imaging, the use of M-mode in the Emergency Department, suprasternal views and more.

Maximum impact! Debriefing
with good judgment

Zaal 530

Good debriefing is a very valuable learning tool. It can help students in a simulation gain insight into their performance but also into their behavioral and cognitive patterns.
During this workshop the basics of the Harvard 'good judgment debriefing' techniques are introduced to the participants. In an interactive video assessment the fundamental rules of this revolutionary approach are explained in a practical, 'start tomorrow' way.

Shocking Toxic!

Zaal 531

Treating the shocking tox patient is a great challenge in the Emergency Department. Which intoxications can cause convulsions? What are the treatment modalities in these patients? In this interactive workshop we are going to discuss all aspects of convulsions in the intoxicated patient, according to the new NVSHA-guidelines. Get ready for some toxic shocks!
